

Tony and Venita Mitchell

Tony was placed in foster care as newborn. After two years he was adopted into a caring family. He went on to be the first and only person in his family to attend and graduate from college, with honors, and navigate a successful 30-year business career serving in C-level roles at corporations from $2 million to $2 billion in revenue. Now retired, Tony serves as COO of Christian Alliance for Orphans (CAFO), and serves other organizations as a board director, speaker, and strategic advisor.

Venita worked in public and private accounting, served as Women's Ministries Director, and is a board member, speaker, and mentor.

Tony and Venita are national speakers at FamilyLife's Weekend to Remember[®] marriage conferences, have two adult children, and reside in Atlanta, Georgia.
